PREFACE

The University of Veterinary and Animal Sciences, Lahore, is one of the oldest Veterinary Institutions in Asia. Since its inception in 1882, the staff of this Institution has worked enthusiastically and successfully conducted a wide range of programs that have effectively catered the educational and training needs in the field of Veterinary and Animal Sciences. By now it has emerged as one of the famous centers of teaching in Veterinary Education in Asia. This Institution started as Veterinary School in 1882 and was raised to the status of Punjab Veterinary College by the end of nineteenth century. Its present buildings were completed in 1921. In 1942, the College was affiliated with the University of the Punjab, Lahore. In 1971, this College was integrated with the University of Agriculture, Faisalabad, and since then basic DVM degree is being awarded. The Up-gradation of College of Veterinary Sciences, Lahore to the status of a University in June 2002, was an obvious testimony of commitment of the Government regarding institutional arrangement for further research, higher education, human resource development and poverty alleviation. With this up-gradation five faculties, two directorates, 21 departments, University administration and management has been established. The new University has marked to start a composite basic degree program in veterinary and animal sciences and to establish postgraduate degrees, diplomas & short courses in areas of animal production and health, in computer science, statistics, livestock extension, economics & business management, wildlife and fisheries, etc. So far, over 4500 Veterinary Graduates have qualified from CVS/UVAS and are serving all over the World. Many graduates from this institution rose to the ranks of Major Generals in Pak Army, Ministers, Vice Chancellors, Federal and Provincial Secretaries. Many of the graduates have entered into Civil Services, Livestock Departments, teaching and the research institutions of the country and UN Agencies (FAO, UNDP, WHO), Atomic Energy, etc.) bringing respect and dignity to their Alms Mater

University of Veterinary & Animal Sciences Alumni Association was established in 2002 with the objective to promote understanding and strengthening relations with alumni. We place this volume before the UVAS Alumni generally with a full assurance that they will appreciate our efforts to produce a work reliable and trustworthy. As it is our first edition of the kind we will not venture to say that it is without fault, but this we may assert, that neither expense nor labour has been spared to make it as complete as possible. Any faults there may be discovered in this edition will be remedied in future Editions.
In our efforts to make the work as full, complete, and reliable as possible, nothing has been taken for granted. Every address in the book has been verified by a personal canvass and by personal inquiry

Dedicated in 1882, the UVAS is one the oldest Veterinary Institutions in Asia that have effectively catered the educational and training needs in the field of Veterinary and Animal Sciences. The faculty and staff of this esteemed institution performed tremendous work and grew significantly over the years. In 2002, the institution acquired the status of University from College which is landmark in the history of Pakistan. The new University has marked to start a composite basic degree program in Veterinary and Animal Sciences and to establish postgraduate degrees, diplomas and short courses in areas of animal production and health, computer science, statistics, livestock extension, economics and business management, wildlife and fisheries, etc. So far, over 4500 Veterinary Graduates have qualified from UVAS and are serving all over the World. Many graduates from this institution rose to the ranks of Major Generals in Pak Army, Ministers, Vice Chancellors, Federal and Provincial Secretaries. Many of them have entered into Civil Services, Livestock Departments, teaching and the research institutions of the country and UN Agencies (FAO, UNDP, WHO), Atomic Energy Commission etc.) Bringing admiration and dignity to their Alma Mater.
